INTRODUCTION

The marine and offshore industries have gone through innovative development over last few years. This industry is expected to strengthen in the coming years. Exploration of new oil and gas fields has now shifted towards deeper water. The demand for Floating Production Storage And Offloading (FPSO) and other types of floating platforms have thus increased.

This premiere Asia Pacific Offshore Conference And Exhibition (APOC 2010) aims to promote interaction between experts from around the globe, particularly those from the Asia Pacific rim. APOC 2010 will specifically addresses "Challenges in Deepwater Oil And Gas Industry".
